Cleaner Spaces, Safer Places

FACILITY SERVICES

Better experiences
Better outcomes

A safe and healthy work environment provides peace of mind.

One thing this year has highlighted is how important good hygiene practices are.

While COVID-19 is an unprecedented example, we're exposed to viruses and bacteria that can cause illness at work every year.

As an employer, how do you protect your people and make them feel safe?

That's where we come in. At GJK, we work with you to create a safe and healthy work environment that provides peace of mind for you and your employees.

Night time

A team of cleaners will be in the office nightly cleaning everything including desks, phones, monitors, work stations, meeting rooms, etc ready for the next day.

High touchpoint areas

- GJK cleaning attendant is in the office all day cleaning high touchpoint areas, available for employees also should they want something wiped down
- Cleaned cards/hangers placed for visual assurance to employees
- High touchpoint surfaces wiped down regularly in areas such as reception, kitchen, toilet, and meeting rooms
- Hands-free soap dispensers in kitchen and toilet areas

Cleaning verification

- ATP audit – scanning surfaces prior to and after cleaning to provide a report to customers

Providing a safe and healthy work environment

High touchpoint areas – like doors, benches, light switches and more – are breeding grounds for germs. Help reduce the risk of infection by introducing touchpoint cleaning and increasing the frequency of general cleaning. GJK can also provide a cleaning attendant to be present throughout the day.

For additional safety and security, ask us about our free-standing temperature and facial recognition stations, which check for temperature abnormalities and identify who enters your workplace.

Supporting good hygiene practices

Encourage cleanliness with hand sanitisers on desks, touch-free sanitisers in public areas and hands-free soap dispensers in kitchen and bathroom areas. GJK can also provide disinfectant wipes for people to clean areas and equipment regularly.

And then there's face masks. While many employees have their own, you may wish to have some available. It's also essential that used masks are disposed of correctly to avoid the risk of spreading bacteria or viruses. Available in a variety of sizes, we can provide Face It recycled cardboard boxes to do this in a safe, sustainable and cost-effective way.

Providing peace of mind

With a range of innovative verification systems, feel confident your workplace is cleaned to the highest standard at the frequency you expect.

From monitoring systems that record when an area has been cleaned to technology that measures any residual organic matter that may remain, we have a solution to meet your needs.

Show your employees that you're putting safety first. From cleaning high touch point areas to ensuring sanitisers are full, having our teams present during work hours helps to ensure your work environment is safe and clean.
